

Settlement

Three bets settle separately, then the presses. Winner of each line collects the stake; halved lines are a push and pay nothing.

PRO TIPS

- 01
- Settle each nine at the turn. A running tab into the back nine is how friendships end.
- 02
- Cap the presses before you tee off — three a side keeps the arithmetic human.
- 03
- Agree on strokes on the first tee, not the fourth. Write the handicaps down.

How it works

- Nassau is three separate bets on one round: the front nine, the back nine, and the overall eighteen. Same stake on each unless you agree otherwise.
- Every hole is match play — low score wins the hole, ties are halved. Strokes don't carry; only holes won matter.
- Write 1, 2 or H in the HOLE WON row, then keep the running margin in the MATCH row so nobody argues at the turn.
- A press is a brand-new bet, opened by whoever is 2 down, running from the next hole to the end of that nine. Worth the same as the original.
- Number your presses 1, 2, 3 in the PRESS row on the hole they open. The original bet keeps running underneath — presses never replace it.
- Auto-press (optional): agree up front that 2 down opens a press automatically, and nobody has to swallow their pride to call it.

LEGEND

- 1 / 2 who won the hole
- H halved — nobody wins
- 1-3 press number, on its opening hole
- ▲ up on the match

ONE MATCH, WORKED

Player 1 wins holes 1 and 3, Player 2 takes hole 2 — P1 is 1 up after three. P1 wins the 4th and goes 2 up, so P2 presses: write 1 in the PRESS row under hole 5. Now two bets run on the front — the original, and the press from hole 5 in. At $20 a bet, P2 winning the press 3&2 while losing the front still nets him $0: −$20 front, +$20 press. That is the whole point of pressing.

THREE BETS. ONE ROUND.

NASSAU

Front nine, back nine, and the whole thing. Lose two and you can always start a new war.
